TRANSPORT IS OUR BUSINESS

Road, Rail or Short Sea – We never lose track

Integrated Short Sea Operations by a. hartrodt

Did you know that at a. hartrodt we love to figure everything out for you? A fast changing Europe offers the opportunity for innovation - sometimes the old ways are simply not best anymore. To ensure that you are still in the fast lane, a. hartrodt has integrated short sea operations into the overland transportation department. This enables us to gain a comprehensively detailed insight into Europe's main transportation modes. So selection of the best route for your consignment is not a challenge, but part of our daily routine. In the end, the choice is always yours to make.

Why short sea might be an interesting alternative for you:

Changing conditions on Europe's roads

- Shortage of truck drivers
- Increasing traffic density , especially in Germany
- Controls at inner European borders become an ever more likely cause of supply chain disruption
- Environmental responsibility – emissions caused by short sea services are much lower than for transporting the same goods on the same route solely by truck
